Axis Mundo: Queer Networks in Chicano L.A. to tour throughout North America!

"The materials at times may have been crude. But the message was not — and it traveled far. Artists, imbued by the tools and language of '70s activism (Chicano, gay and feminist) presented a new possibility for what could be considered mainstream."

— Carolina Miranda, Los Angeles Times

We are pleased to announce that beginning this year Axis Mundo: Queer Networks in Chicano L.A. will travel to venues throughout North America in an exhibition tour organized by Independent Curators International (ICI). This landmark exhibition, organized by ONE Archives at the USC Libraries in collaboration with The Museum of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles, as a part of Getty's Pacific Standard Time initiative, concluded its run in Los Angeles on December 31, 2017.

Look out for an announcement on the exhibition's first venue soon! Find more information on the tour here.
